WEEK 9 PREVIEW

Will it be trick or treat for the PFL's three unbeaten teams in Week 8? Butler, Dayton and Drake – each 4-0 in PFL action – all return home after road victories in Week 7. Marist returns home looking for its fourth straight victory while Campbell and Morehead State each seek their season's first PFL victory.

Butler is now just one of three unbeaten teams in the FCS – along Montana and Richmond – and hosts Davidson, a team that has not won a road game this season. The Bulldogs are 7-0 for the first time since 1983 after holding on for a victory at Campbell last week. The Wildcats have lost two straight games after surrendering a 21-16 loss to PFL co-leader Drake. It will be the second straight week Davidson has met one of the league's three unbeaten squads.

Marist has won three straight contests and seeks its first four-game win streak since 1997 when it hosts Valparaiso which is seeking its first PFL victory this season. The Red Foxes won their first road PFL game last week at Morehead State, coming back from a 14-point deficit. The Crusaders were held to a season-low 60 yards in its loss at Dayton last week and will seek to bounce back on the road, where they have posted their only victory this season.

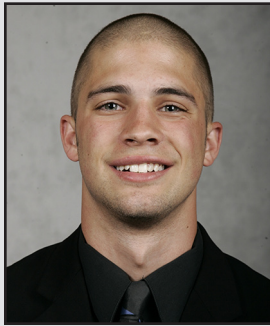

Morehead State travels to Campbell as both teams seek their first PFL victories this season. The Eagles hit the road after surrendering a 14-point lead in a loss to Marist last week. It will be Morehead State's ninth-straight contest and will be the last PFL team to take an off week when they get a break in Week 10. The Camels have seen their margin of defeat dwindle in each of its last four losses, shrinking to just seven points in a loss to co-leader Butler last week.

Dayton will treat area children with its annual Toys for Tots drive while seeking to avoid a trick from visiting San Diego. The Flyers have rebounded from a season-opening loss with six straight victories – all after senior Steve Valentino made the transition from wide receiver to quarterback – including a 38-7 victory at Valparaiso that showcased the Flyers defense (60 yards allowed). San Diego fell to Jacksonville, 34-16, last week – its second-straight home loss and now returns to the road where its 2-2 this season.

Jacksonville, the league's only one-loss team, will try to bring one of the leagues unbeaten teams to its level when it travels to Drake. The Dolphins made their longest possible PFL road trip in Week 8, winning at San Diego. Jacksonville follows that with its second-longest possible trip this week. Drake returns home – where it has not lost this season (3-0) – after posting a come-from-behind victory at Davidson last week.
